Re: J. Michael Roddy:

I have worked with Mr. Roddy on several film projects over the past five years, and am acquainted with him personally for somewhat longer. During that time, I have had the opportunity to watch him as he performed his professional duties and responsibilities, and in his less formal social interaction with friends, colleagues, and co-workers.

His work was timely, of excellent quality, and he was responsible in his job performance; he also had the rare capacity to follow through on both large and small details. His crews were always relaxed and personable, despite the extraordinary pressures of working within time and budget constraints. The finished films were always of professional quality, suitable for both commercial broadcast and theatrical exhibition.

I would describe him as capable and enthusiastic, with the capacity to work in any executive or production capacity, and I would employ him myself if I were undertaking a project for which he was suitable.

Any questions may be directed to me at the contacts above; e-mail would be the quickest and most immediate connection. Put "J Michael Roddy" in the subject heading.

Most sincerely,

Carl Gottlieb
